DAN SMOOT

ROLL CALLS, 1966

To rate all members of Congress for their performance in 1966, we have selected the 40 most significant roll call votes taken so far this year — 20 in the Senate, 20 in the House. In the present Report, we discuss and tabulate 28 of the roll calls. Next week, we will present the remaining 12 roll call votes, together with percentage ratings that members of Congress earned by the stands they took when the rolls were called.

By our standards (the standards of the Constitution), a legislator who supports any program not clearly authorized by the Constitution (no matter how well-meaning or apparently desirable the program) is voting liberal, in violation of the Constitution and of his own oath to uphold the Constitution. Rated by such standards, the present Congress, on the whole, is a sorry spectacle.

MINIMUM WAGE. All federal minimum wage laws are unconstitutional, because the Constitution grants the federal government no authority to prescribe wages and working hours for private industry. These laws create unemployment among non-skilled workers — damaging small, new, or marginal businesses that provide the most jobs for untrained people. The laws do not help skilled workers, who make more than the laws prescribe.

On January 20, 1966, the Senate (by a vote of 60 to 10) passed HR 8126, an administration bill to extend coverage of federal minimum wage laws to the District of Columbia. This vote is tabulated in Column 1 under Senate, C indicating a conservative stand against.

On May 26, the House (303 to 93) passed HR 13712, to raise the compulsory minimum wage (nationwide) from $1.25 to $1.60 an hour by 1969 — and to extend coverage to millions of workers not previously covered, such as bus drivers and taxi drivers, and employees in restaurants and retail establishments. By a vote of 232 to 167, the House rejected an effort to delete from HR 13712 a section which extends minimum wage coverage (for the first time) to farm workers (prescribing $1.00 an hour, with increases to $1.30 by 1969).

The vote on minimum wage for farmers is tabulated in Column 8 under House; on passage of HR 13712 in Column 9 under House, C indicating a conservative stand against.

RIGHT TO WORK LAWS. One of the few conservative victories in Congress during 1966 was defeat of administration-union efforts to repeal the right-to-work section (14 b) of the Taft-Hartley Act. The effort to prohibit right-to-work laws was made in HR 77, passed by the House in 1965 but not by the Senate. In 1966, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield twice tried to force Senate passage of HR 77, by invoking cloture (that is, by shutting off debate). Invoking cloture requires the vote of two-thirds of all Senators present and voting. The first Senate vote on cloture (February 8) was 51 to 48; the second vote (February 10) was 50 to 49. Failure to stop debate killed HR 77. The Senate votes on cloture are tabulated in Columns 2 and 3 under Senate, C indicating a stand against cloture — this being equivalent to a conservative stand for right-to-work.

SOCIAL SECURITY AMENDMENTS. Despite burdensome, ever-increasing, social security payroll taxes, the social security system is bankrupt — without enough funds to meet its commitments. Yet, in most election years, politicians (trying to buy votes with taxpayers' money) expand social security coverage. In 1966, Senator Winston Prouty of Vermont proposed an amendment to HR 12752 (an omnibus tax-increase bill) to give $44 a month from social security funds to all persons over 70 who have never paid a social security tax and are not, therefore, covered. The Senate adopted the Prouty amendment by a vote of 45 to 40. The vote is tabulated in Column 4 under Senate, C indicating a conservative stand against.

In conference, provisions of the Prouty amendment were modified to $35 a month plus $17.50 a month for a spouse, available to persons reaching age 72 before 1968, but excluding some who receive federal pensions or welfare payments. This modification was accepted by voice votes in both Houses, and was signed into law.

RURAL DEVELOPMENT DISTRICTS. On April 25, 1966, the Senate (43 to 21) passed S 2934, the Rural Community District Act, authorizing 230 million dollars to create federal districts to plan (on a single-county or multi-county basis) the economic, cultural, and social development of rural areas. The federal districts could not, however, force their plans on local governments; and state governments could veto actions of the districts. The bill is unconstitutional; and (despite the specified limitations) it represents another dangerous step toward metropolitan government in the United States — that is, the replacing of local and state governments with agencies run by appointed officials, financed and controlled by a central political authority in Washington.

The Senate vote on S 2934 is tabulated in Column 5 under Senate, C indicating a conservative stand against. The House has not yet taken action.

RENT SUBSIDIES. In the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965, Congress authorized Johnson's outrageous rent-subsidy scheme to confiscate money from some Americans to pay the rent of others; but the House deleted funds for the scheme when enacting an appropriations bill. In 1966, funds for rent subsidies were included in HR 14012, the Second Supplemental Appropriations Bill. On March 29, the House, by a vote of 198 to 192, approved $12 million in rent-subsidy funds for the remainder of the 1966 fiscal year. On April 27, the Senate approved the funds by a vote of 46 to 45. Those votes are tabulated in Column 6 under Senate and in Column 4 under House, C indicating a conservative stand against.

On May 10, the House (192 to 188) approved $22 million for rent subsidies in fiscal 1967. This vote is tabulated in Column 7 under House, C indicating a conservative stand against. The Senate vote will be tabulated next week.

TRUTH IN PACKAGING. On June 9, 1966, the Senate (72 to 9) passed S 985, the Truth In Packaging Act which, if approved by the House, will give the federal government illegal power to set packaging standards for household and personal goods sold in groceries, drug stores, and other retail outlets. The vote is tabulated in Column 7, under Senate, C indicating a conservative stand against.

NATIONAL DEBT. On June 8, 1966, the House (199 to 165); and on June 16, the Senate (50 to 17) approved HR 15202, which authorized a "temporary" rise in the national debt — to $330 billion through June 30, 1967. This is the seventh time since January, 1961, that Congress has authorized a "temporary" increase in the national debt limit. Votes are recorded in Column 8 under Senate and in Column 11 under House, C indicating a conservative stand against.

POLITICAL SOLICITATIONS. Senator John Williams of Delaware tried to amend the 1966 federal pay raise bill (HR 14122) to prohibit salaried civil servants from putting pressures on other civil servants for political contributions. The Senate rejected Williams' amendment by a vote of 48 to 33 — which is tabulated in Column 9 under Senate, C indicating a conservative stand for.

FOREIGN AID. On February 24, 1966, the House (350 to 27) passed HR 12169, appropriating $415 million in aid to the Dominican Republic and to Southeast Asia, for the remainder of the 1966 fiscal year. The Senate approved this bill by voice vote. The House vote is recorded in Column 3 under House, C indicating a conservative stand against.

In July, 1966, the Senate debated S 3584 (foreign economic aid authorization for fiscal 1967) and S 3583 (foreign military aid authorization for fiscal 1967).

On July 19, the Senate (48 to 35) rejected Johnson's request for a two-year authorization of foreign aid.

On July 26, the Senate (56 to 33) adopted an amendment to S 3584, expressing the "Sense of Congress" that it is a "grave blow to the common defense of the free world and safety of American and allied troops in Viet Nam" for any government to help finance the building of steel plants in red China. On the same day, the Senate passed both foreign aid bills, S 3584 and S 3583, (by votes of 66 to 27, and 82 to 7), authorizing $2,059, 762,-000 in foreign economic aid for the 1967 fiscal year; $792 million in foreign military aid.

House action on the foreign aid bills will be reported next week. Senate votes are tabulated as follows: Column 10, C indicating a conservative stand against multi-year foreign-aid authorization; Column 11, C indicating a conservative stand expressing disapproval of the financing of steel plants in red China by nations which have received American aid; Column 12, C indicating a conservative stand against the foreign economic aid bill (S 3584); Column 13, C indicating a conservative stand against the foreign military aid bill (S 3583).

UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION. On August 8, 1966, the Senate passed HR 15119, prescribing uniform federal standards for the 31-year-old federal-state unemployment compensation system — increasing unemployment taxes levied on employers, and increasing the amount of federal participation. Though it does not go as far as President Johnson requested, HR 15119 would multiply the inequities of the inequitable, unconstitutional federal-state unemployment compensation program; would encourage idleness at taxpayers' expense; would enlarge the powers of federal bureaucrats to dictate to state governments.

The vote is recorded in Column 14 under Senate, C indicating a conservative stand against. The Senate-passed version of HR 15119 differs from the House-passed version. The two versions are presently in conference.

HCUA FUNDS. The voting of funds for the House Committee on Un-American Activities is not a constitutional issue, because Congress clearly has constitutional authority to vote funds for one of its own committees. Nor does the vote on HCUA funds necessarily separate "liberals" from "conservatives." Each year, however, we record the vote on providing funds for HCUA, to show which Congressmen are willing to identify themselves publicly with a cause widely known to be a primary goal of the communist party — abolition of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

On January 27, 1966, the House (by a vote of 299 to 24) approved HCUA funds for 1967 fiscal year. The vote is tabulated in Column 1, L indicating a liberal stand against HCUA.

ASIAN DEVELOPMENT BANK. On February 9, 1966, the House (293 to 80) passed HR 12563, authorizing U. S. membership in, and an initial $200 million U. S. contribution to, the Asian Development Bank (a new Johnson scheme for giving American tax money to Asian nations, under pretext of making loans). The United States will provide one-fifth of all funds invested in the Bank by member nations. The Senate passed HR 12563 by voice vote. The House vote is tabulated in Column 2, C indicating a conservative stand against U. S. participation in the Asian Development Bank.

FOOD FOR PEACE. Under the Food For Peace Program (begun in 1954, with Public Law 480), we have supplied many billions of dollars' worth of American agricultural products to foreign governments — some of them communist, most of them anti-American, few of them real friends of the United States. Most Food For Peace deals are called sales, because recipient countries pay for the food in their local currencies; but the currencies are virtually worthless to us.

While considering the 1967 agricultural appropriations bill, the House (April 26), by a vote of 290 to 98, adopted an amendment prohibiting Food For Peace sales to countries trading with North Vietnam or permitting ships or planes of their registry to transport goods to North Vietnam. This vote is tabulated in Column 5, C indicating a conservative stand for stopping Food For Peace giveaways to nations helping our enemy in Vietnam.

Representative Prentiss Walker of Mississippi offered an amendment to the Food For Peace Act of 1966 (HR 14929), prohibiting Food For Peace sales to communist nations. The House rejected this amendment by a vote of 200 to 157. This vote is tabulated in Column 12, C indicating a conservative stand against Food For Peace sales to communist governments.

On June 9, the House (333 to 20) passed the Food For Peace Act of 1966, authorizing an annual expenditure of $2.5 billion for "sales" and $800 million for outright gifts of Food For Peace. It is significant that the House deleted from the bill the word surplus in connection with the food stuffs distributed abroad. The United States is not disposing of surplus agricultural commodities, but is feeding foreign populations from American food stores that are dangerously low.

The vote on passage of the Food For Peace Act is tabulated in Column 13 under House, C indicating a conservative stand against.

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT COMMISSION. On April 27, the House (299 to 94) passed HR 10065, the Equal Employment Opportunity Act of 1966, repealing Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act which had created the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. HR 10065 would create a Commission much stronger than the one created in 1964. The new Commission would be given blanket authority to examine union and management records of apprentice training to determine whether discrimination exists. It would have power to issue cease and desist orders; to accept and initiate charges of discrimination; to order reinstatement of discharged employees (with or without back pay); to order the hiring of new employees. The Commission's authority would extend to all employers (except religious organizations) of 8 or more persons, and to all labor unions of 8 or more members. Its orders and directives would be enforceable through federal courts.

The House vote is tabulated in Column 6, C indicating a conservative stand against the Equal Employment Opportunity Act. The Senate has not taken action on the bill.

INTERNATIONAL EDUCATION ACT. On June 6, 1966, the House (194 to 90) passed HR 14643, the International Education Act, authorizing a five-year program of subsidies to universities and colleges for the purpose of improving research, instruction, and studies in international affairs. The bill authorizes expenditures of $140 million for the first 3 years.

The Senate has taken no action on the bill. The House vote is tabulated in Column 10, C indicating a conservative stand against.

CONSUMER CREDIT. During consideration of HR 14025 (extension of the Defense Production Act of 1950), House liberals offered an amendment which would have given the President standby authority to regulate and control consumer credit. The House (275 to 73) rejected the amendment. The vote is tabulated in Column 14, C indicating a conservative stand against giving the President standby authority to control consumer credit.
